From Editor's Desk....

"Coming together is beginning, keeping together is progress, Working together is a success."

— Henry Ford

We are pleased to present the September 2025 edition of the International Journal of Maxillofacial Imaging (IJMI). Over time, this journal has become a significant source of knowledge and research in dentistry, made possible by the dedicated contributions of our valued authors and the commitment of our editorial team.

With a strong focus on publishing original and high-quality studies, the Journal seeks to shape dental practice at the levels of clinicians, researchers, industry professionals, and policy-makers worldwide.

We sincerely thank all the researchers, authors, and reviewers whose expertise and insights have greatly enriched academic discussions.

As we move forward on this inspiring path, we warmly invite the global dental community to collaborate with us in advancing dental science and clinical practice.

Best wishes
