From Editor's Desk.

Warm Greetings!

“Continue to study and learn new things” - Edie Mc Clurg

Outstanding research is producing a wealth of theories with solid foundations, which may present a breakthrough for researchers around the world in raising awareness of these theories and applying them to the field of study. Our journal publishes novel research, an empirical and conceptual wide range of special instances, and reviews within the field. It serves as a multidisciplinary forum for discussion of disparate ideologies across disciplines.

By consistently pushing the standards higher, the Journal's Editorial Board is doing a fantastic job. Our sincere wish is that our publication will be of interest to you and that it will provoke thoughtful thought, thereby fostering a variety of perspectives. I take the privilege to thank the authors, reviewers, and readers of IJMI for their unwavering support and encouragement on behalf of International Journal of Maxillofacial Imaging and team Innovative Publishers. However, we will perform much better with all of your encouragement and support.

Best Regards,

Dr. Sowmya Gujjar Vishnurao
